

Dear Colleague,

We would like to extend a cordial invitation for you or your Ph.D. students to attend our esteemed conference on legal history and Roman law. The event is organized by the Department of the History of the State and Law at the Faculty of Law, Masaryk University, in Brno, Czech Republic. This international gathering is scheduled for September 11th and 12th and is open to Ph.D. students in legal history and Roman law.

Our conference aims to provide a valuable platform for emerging researchers and build on the significant success and keen interest of our previous edition in 2022. It offers a unique opportunity for Ph.D. students to share their academic journey experiences, present their ongoing research, especially those based on their Ph.D. theses, and foster valuable networks. Such interactions are crucial for nurturing future collaborations and opening avenues for international support.

The conference's theme is intentionally broad to accommodate contributions across the spectrum of legal history and Roman law, from ancient times to contemporary developments, across various states. Besides the rich academic discourse, we will also offer an engaging accompanying program for participants. The conference will have thematic sections tailored to the registered participants' topics, ensuring a focused and enriching dialogue.

The conference language is English, and the proceedings will be published in English in a peer-reviewed conference volume. Notably, contributions from our first conference are indexed in the Web of Science (WOS). This presents a fantastic opportunity for PhD students to disseminate their work internationally and gain recognition in their field.

Given the limited number of spots, we encourage early registration to secure participation. For more information and registration details (deadline – June 15), please visit our website: International Legal History Meeting of PhD Students \(muni.cz\).

We look forward to the potential involvement of your department's PhD students in what promises to be an enriching experience for all attendees.

Best Regards,
